Title	Student Mobility in the European Higher Education Area 2010
Objective	Der Erfolg des Bologna-Prozesses und des Europäischen Hochschulraums wird im Jahre 2010 vor allem daran zu messen sein, ob die Mobilität der Studierenden auf allen Ausbildungsebenen in Europa signifikant zunimmt. Nach Vorstellung der Europäischen Kommission soll sich bis 2010 allein die Zahl der ERASMUS -Studierenden verdreifachen. Auch im geplanten TEMPUS Plus-Programm ist eine deutliche Mobilitätssteigerung beabsichtigt. Ob und wie dies allerdings unter den Bedingungen des Bologna-Prozesses tatsächlich erreicht werden kann, ist bei vielen europäischen Hochschulen noch umstritten. Insbesondere die Umstellung der bisherigen (oft längeren) nationalen Studienprogramme auf die in der Regel kürzeren (oft dreijährigen) Bachelor- und (ein- bis zweijährigen) Masterprogramme führt zur Frage, wie dort Auslandsstudienphasen gesichert und die Voraussetzungen für eine deutliche quantitative und qualitative Verbesserung des Auslandsstudiums bis 2010 geschaffen werden können. Ähnliche Fragen stellen sich für die Doktorandenausbildung, die seit der Berlin-Erklärung der Europäischen Bildungsminister ebenfalls ein wichtiger Teil des Bologna-Prozesses ist. Das vom Deutschen Akademischen Austauschdienst (DAAD) koordinierte SOKRATES/TEMPUS-Projekt "Student mobility in the European Higher Education Area 2010" will sich diesem Thema im Rahmen einer Bologna-Konferenz widmen und wird auf der Basis von nationalen Analyseberichten zur Mobilität in Bachelor-, Master- und Doktorandenprogrammen, die von den Projektpartnern erstellt werden, von good practice-Beispielen aus SOKRATES, TEMPUS und nationalen Programmen sowie von Diskussionsergebnissen aus den Workshops der Konferenz Empfehlungen für die künftige Gestaltung von Studienprogrammen erarbeiten. Hauptprojektpartner sind 30 Nationale SOKRATES-Agenturen und TEMPUS-Informationsstellen in den aktuellen und potentiellen Bologna-Ländern. An der Konferenz, die am 17./18. März 2005 in Bonn stattfindet, nehmen rund 220 Hochschullehrer, Bologna-Promotoren, Studierende sowie Vertreter von SOKRATES- und TEMPUS-Stellen sowie Ministerien teil. Somit sind die unmittelbar betroffenen Akteure des Bologna-Prozesses direkt bei der Erarbeitung der Konferenzempfehlungen beteiligt. Durch die Einbindung der Mehrheit der aktuellen und potentiellen Bologna-Länder ist zudem eine breite Aussagekraft der Ergebnisse gesichert. Die Konferenzergebnisse, Empfehlungen, good practice-Beispiele und nationalen Analyseberichte werden in einem Konferenz-Bericht zusammengefasst und über die Projektpartner in den Bologna-Ländern (auch über Internet) verbreitet. Auch die ERASMUS Mundus-Informationsstellen, die Bologna follow-up Group, die Europäische Kommission und das "tuning"-Projekt erhalten den Bericht zur weiteren Verwendung.
